FOR RELEASE WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9

Two new instructors have been appointed to the faculty of the Montana State University College of Fine Arts, President H. K. Newburn announced.

Richard H. James Jr. will teach all technical courses in the Drama Department as well as some courses in speech. Laurence B. Perry will teach organ, music literature, and other courses in the School of Music.

James was speech and technical drama director at Wisconsin State College during the past school year, and he worked on dramatic productions at Northwestern University this summer. He has had experience in technical production and acting with the Leyden Community Theater and the Globe Players' Community Theater in Chicago and the Resident Theater in Kansas City, Mo. He received a diploma from Wright Junior College, Chicago, and B. S. and M. A. degrees from Northwestern.

Perry did graduate work at Indiana University for the past two years. He earned a bachelor of music degree in organ and a bachelor of music education from Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, in 1953 and a master of music in organ from Syracuse University in 1957.
